

THREE INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Three Daly City residents were the victims of a reckless driver in San Francisco last Saturday night. George Hopman, accompanied by Mrs. Anna Hopman, of Westlake avenue, and Miss Susan McKeown were returning from the Orpheum Theatre. In crossing Van Ness avenue, a car cut-in in front of Mr. Hopman's car, coming from Fell street, striking Mr. Hopman's machine, turning it completely over, all of the occupants having a narrow escape from death. Miss McKeown was the most seriously injured of the trio, being rendered unconscious, sustaining a deep gash in the forehead and being bruised about the body. She has been confined to her home since the accident. Mrs. Hopman also received a number of cuts and bruises, while Mr. Hopman was badly shaken up. Hopman tried to turn out of the way of the onrushing car, but it was coming at too fast a rate of speed. Both cars were badly damaged. The occupants of the car causing the crash stopped to render aid, but only one of the men was sober enough to render any assistance, and the others disappeared as soon as they could.

OFFICERS INSTALLED BY LOCAL DRUIDS

On Monday evening, May 12, at Masonic Hall, Daly City, Hillcrest Circle No. 143, U. A. O. D., held a delightful meeting. After all the unfinished business of the first year had been finished, the new officers were installed by Deputy Caroline Blair. The first Arch Druidess, Madalene Fellows, and her mother, Mrs. V. Lombard, were complimented on their achievement in bringing this Circle to its present successful standing. The following officers were presented with gifts of appreciation for their services for the past year: Madalene Fellows, Past Arch Druidess; Mrs. V. Lombard, organizer and responsible for all of its members; Mrs. Ivan Eade, a very efficient secretary; Mrs. Vickers, a trustworthy treasurer; and Mrs. Gertrude Gehringer, a most faithful and harmonious musician. Each officer responded with heartfelt gratitude for the kind thought expressed by the membership. Every mother present was given a card which paid a tribute to her honor. And last, but not least, a Spanish supper was served to about sixty guests. Therefore another evening was added to the long list of delightful affairs given by Hillcrest Circle. The following officers were installed for the coming term: Past Arch Druidess, Madalene Fellows; Arch Druidess, Lillian Landini; First Bard, Victorine Bernardi; Second Bard, Minnie Bernardi; Conductor, Ethel Adams; Conductress, Katherine Foreman; Secretary, Marcella Trear; Treasurer, Henrietta McKeown; Chaplain, Annie Yates; Auditors, Sophie Kramer, Clara Gillett, Ada McNear; Trustees, V. Lombard, Margarite Sereno, Agnes Mozanti.

JACK KESTER INJURED BY PALO ALTO MOTORIST

Jack Kester, of Woodrow street, was struck by a Ford car, at Vista Grande avenue and Mission street, while riding his motorcycle about midnight last Saturday, being rendered completely unconscious. Mr. Kester was taken to the South San Francisco hospital, where it was found that he had sustained a broken ankle. He was struck by a Ford coupe driven by James T. Yond, of Menlo School, Stanford College, Palo Alto.

GRACE CHURCH PLANS CHILDREN'S PROGRAM

Sunday morning, June 1, has been set by the Presbyterian church for the observance of Children's Day. The services will be at 10 A. M., and the program will be entirely by the children of the church. The superintendent, Mr. William Rae, will be in charge of the program, which will be instructive and original.

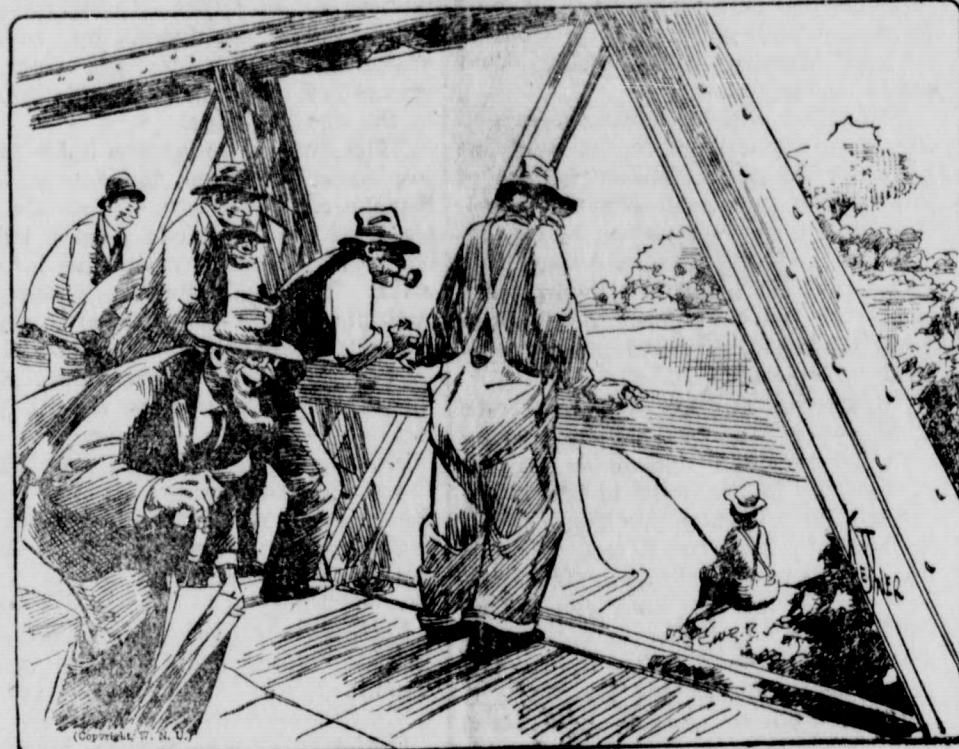

GHOST TOWNS AND LIVE COMMUNITIES

In many sections of our country today are to be found "ghost towns." A ghost town is a "deserted village"—a town that at one time was prosperous and flourishing, but today is uninhabited and its buildings and thoroughfares are falling into decay—ghost towns—towns that failed to grow. Perhaps the most outstanding examples of ghost towns are to be found in mining districts where the ore has run out, or in oil districts where the wells have been pumped dry, but there are also many others where lack of civic interest and co-operation has brought on community dry rot, and these once thriving communities have faded into oblivion with the passing years. Another fifty years will bring to light many new ghost towns. Some communities seemingly prosperous today will then be dead communities—ghost towns—towns that failed to grow and develop. Growth is a natural and healthy process. The best index to the prosperity of a community is its growth—a steady increase in the number of its inhabitants. A town or city that is not growing is lacking in one or more essential qualities. It is not a well rounded community. The farmer knows that he must enrich his soil and cultivate it to insure the proper growth of crops. The manufacturer must provide the right equipment and labor conditions to promote the growth of his business, and the citizen of a community must provide the essential factors of community growth if that community is to thrive. The growth of a community must be developed and watched. While a bigger Daly City is to be desired by its citizens, it is of equal importance that Daly City should be a BETTER community. It is this thought that is in the minds of the sponsors of the Community Development Campaign now being carried on in the Daly City Record. Remember that the ghost towns of America are deserted villages because their citizens bled the community of the prosperity so abundantly provided and put nothing back. Are you doing your share to safeguard the growth of Daly City? Are you doing your part to make Daly City a bigger and better community? Are you putting your share back into this community to help it grow and develop? No individual should analyze a community proposition of importance from the angle of "to what extent will I personally be benefited." Should every individual of Daly City assume such an attitude, it is needless to state our town and community would never be more than a wide place in the road—if it would be in existence at all. It often has been stated a town or community that is good enough to live is deserving and good enough to be boosted to the very utmost of our ability. The community affords one not only the necessities of life, but pleasures and luxuries as well, to say nothing of fellowship, encouragement and co-operation of every kind that make for progress and success. We all owe it to the GROWTH and PROGRESS of our city to do our share in helping it to grow and prosper.

SURPRISE "STORK" SHOWER
Mrs. John Edward Johnstone, of Twenty-fifth avenue, San Francisco, was tendered a surprise stork shower given by her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. Bacigalupi, and Mrs. C. J. Pettigrew, in Mrs. Bacigalupi's lovely home on Wilson street, last Saturday evening. The table was stunningly decorated in pink and white with pink baby novelties to match. After partaking of refreshments the guests spent the remainder of the evening playing bridge. Mrs. Johnstone was the recipient of many lovely gifts. Among the guests were Mrs. Kathryn Phelan, Miss Mary Harvey, Miss Edna Phelan, Miss Mary Phelan, Mrs. Harry Elmers, Mrs. D. Johnstone, Miss Marie Shaw, Mrs. Anthony Parmisano, Mrs. Robert Pelletier, Mrs. Mary Gilles, Miss Bernice Gillies, Mrs. Lloyd Kennedy, Mrs. C. J. Pettigrew and Mrs. J. Bacigalupi.

Move to Utah Capital
Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gusdavidson, of San Diego avenue, left Tuesday morning for Salt Lake City, Utah, where Mr. Gusdavidson has been transferred by the Safeway Stores. The young couple have a host of friends here who wish them success. Mr. Gusdavidson is well known in Daly City, having been manager of the Safeway Store for some time. He was also superintendent of the Mormon Sunday school. Mrs. Gusdavidson will be missed by the little ones who attended her classes at Sunday school, where she was a teacher.

LICENSE QUESTION BEFORE COUNCIL

A regular meeting of the City Council was held last Monday evening, Mayor H. H. Smith presiding. Councilman Henry Sundermann being absent. A communication was received from the Jack Johnson Roofing Company, asking permission to contract roofing jobs and painting under one license. The Council ruled that a license should be paid for each line of work. A communication was received from the Native Sons and Native Daughters, congratulating the members of the City Council upon their success in conducting the affairs of Daly City in such a forward and sensible manner, and also inviting them to their Monday whist. The census returns show that Daly City is now the fourth largest city in the county, with a population of 7,833, as compared with 3,779 in 1920, showing a gain of over 100 per cent. A communication was received from the city attorney, advising that the case of Daly City vs. Smith & Huber is set for trial on June 11, before Superior Judge Buck in Redwood City.

PROSPECTIVE BRIDE TENDERED SHOWER

Mrs. Eva Kinsman, fiancée of Mr. Fred Schmidt, was honored last Tuesday by the Ladies' Aid and Bible class of the M. E. church, of which she is a teacher, with a surprise bridal shower. The ladies who were giving this shower assembled at the home of Mrs. Cashion, on Westlake avenue, at 8:15. A messenger, Mrs. King, dressed in a khaki hiking suit and cap, took the gifts one by one, at intervals of ten minutes, to the home of Mrs. Kinsman's daughter, Mrs. Orr, of Westlake avenue. The messenger rang the bell and asked the bride to be to sign for each package as it was delivered. This caused great merriment among those assembled. The supper was served at the home of Mrs. A. Meeth, also on Westlake avenue. Preparation of refreshments began to worry the one so honored by her friends, but this worry was ended when the messenger at 11 P. M. led the guests to the Meeth home, which had been prettily decorated for the occasion. After the supper had been enjoyed, round table games were played by the guests. Those present were: Mesdames E. Kinsman, B. R. Cashion, F. Darragh, Paul Williams, S. King, A. Meeth, Tinges, Charles Neibert, F. Rothwell, H. E. Haddon, Orr, Harry McKee.

MERCHANTS GETTING READY FOR PICNIC

Extensive preparations are being made by the committee representing the Daly City Merchants' Association for the picnic to be held at Oak Cove Park, near San Mateo, on Sunday, May 25. The committee, composed of Dr. F. P. Callen, Peter Pavlos, J. Plansky, William Haerdter, H. M. Cohn, and Andrew Vireno, the president of the Merchants' Association, is lining up a list of attractions that insure a most pleasant outing for all who care to take part in the picnic celebration. There will be music and dancing, racing and ball games. There will be a ball game between the married men and the single men, races for the fat men and the thin men, and almost every other kind of sport and game known. There will be suitable prizes offered for the winners of these races and games. As now planned, the meeting place for the caravan which will go to the picnic grounds will be at the City Hall at 9:30 on Sunday morning, May 25. From there the parade will go to the picnic grounds.

WEAKNESS AT BAT CAUSE OF REVERSE

The Daly City Merchants' baseball team showed their weakness against curve ball pitching last Sunday. The result was a 5 to 0 defeat at the hands of the Del Monte Creamery nine on the local diamond. Although Mahood, the visitors' pitcher, struck out only five of the Merchant batters, he kept them flying out almost continually, thirteen men being put out via this route. Plansky, Maloney and Aherns collected the three hits he allowed. The contest was a pitchers' battle until the fifth inning. In that frame Thompson, Merchants' chucker, began to lose his effectiveness, allowing three hits and a walk before he was taken out in favor of Toole. The new man showed some real stuff. He walked one batter, struck out three, and allowed two hits and not a single earned run. Small crowds have been attending the games recently, due to weather conditions. Last Sunday about 100 people braved the chill winds to watch the home team perform. "Maybe we'll get a break sometime," says Manager Cavagnaro.

JOURNEY ACROSS THE BAY AND HAVE ENJOYABLE TIME

Some Daly City ladies spent a very delightful afternoon at the home of Mrs. Bess Cinnamond in Oakland, on Wednesday. Mrs. H. Cliver drove her Nash car and took the guests from Daly City, and Mrs. G. Power took the San Francisco guests in her Buick. All met at the Ferry and went over on the boat together. After a game of whist and pictures had been taken, the hostess served delicious refreshments. Those who enjoyed the party were: Mrs. H. H. Smith, Mrs. D. Putney, Mrs. C. Cochran, Mrs. H. Cliver, Mrs. J. Kelly and Mrs. M. White, of Daly City; Mrs. J. Sweeney, Mrs. L. Power and Mrs. A. Romer, of San Francisco; Mrs. B. LaStrange, Mrs. E. Barr, Mrs. J. Chester, Mrs. R. Loshen, and Mrs. Bess Cinnamond and Thais and Rea Cinnamond, of Oakland.

Tendered Farewell Party

A few of the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gusdavidson gave a farewell surprise party at their home on Monday evening, prior to their departure for Salt Lake City, Utah. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde W. Lindsay, Bishop and Mrs. R. Vance Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ulig, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Sadler, Mr. Francis Ashby, Miss Drusilla Felsch, Mrs. C. Rehbock, Mrs. E. Herdridge, Mrs. G. Felsch, Mr. and Mrs. Brockhurst, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Gusdavidson. A very pleasant evening was spent, refreshments were served, and all wished them godspeed on their journey.

TEACHERS SEEK SALARY INCREASE

The regular monthly meeting of the Jefferson Union high school board of education was held on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the high school building. Trustees Bentley, Brown, Gehringer, Jensen and Vireno and Principal James Ferguson were present. At the previous meeting Trustee Bentley had been elected to succeed himself as president of the board, and Trustee Jensen to succeed herself as secretary. Upon resuming their duties both Mr. Bentley and Mrs. Jensen received the thanks of the other trustees for the efficient service they had rendered the board during the past year as officers. A committee of the faculty consisting of Mr. Miller, Mr. Van Houte, Miss Torello, Miss Hoover and Miss Staib appeared before the board and presented the following petition: To Mr. Ferguson and the Board of Education: We, the teachers of the Jefferson Union high school, request the consideration of an increase in salaries for the school year of 1930 and '31 and the changing of the schedule to increase the maximum compensation paid. In view of the fact that other schools are paying higher salaries and are increasing their maximum compensation and to show the low salaries paid by this district, we submit the following data:

City, County or State	Av. Salary
San Rafael	2,279.00
Palo Alto	2,411.00
Alameda	2,357.00
Oakland	2,784.00
Long Beach	2,618.00
Sacramento	2,618.00
Marin county	2,332.00
Santa Clara county	2,336.00
San Mateo county	2,359.00
State of California	2,400.00
Jefferson Union high school	2,180.00

Maximum and minimum salaries paid by some California cities: Berkeley, $2,700 maximum; Burbank, $1,800 minimum; $2,800 maximum; Fullerton, $2,800 maximum; Los Angeles, $1,800 minimum, $3,040 maximum; San Francisco, $2,000 minimum, $4,000 maximum; Jefferson Union high school, $1,800 minimum, $2,400 maximum. Some yearly increases of California Cities: Alameda, $70 per year up to ten years; Berkeley, $100; Burbank, $100. In view of the above data and the fact that the majority of the present faculty have been in the school for four years or longer, we feel that we are entitled to more compensation and would appreciate your earnest consideration of this request. Respectfully submitted. (Signed,) George E. Miller, C. M. Hackley, Wm. Van Houte, Ester Torello, Bessie B. Hoover, Gilda Brown, Mildred Dannenbaum, Dorothy Staib, Effie Potter, Marjorie A. Robinson, Albert Biaggini, Bertha Holtz. Mr. Miller acted as spokesman for the committee. President Bentley stated that the board is confronted by a very serious problem regarding the finances of the school. The assessed valuation of the district is less than four million dollars, he said, and consequently the amount of money that can be raised by local taxes is very limited. It is of first importance that the board keep the expenditures within the income. In order to do this the most rigid economy had to be observed in every department. He assured the teachers that the board would take their request under advisement and would give it sympathetic consideration. Mrs. Jensen said that she would like to have the complete data regarding the salaries paid in all of the high schools of California, as well as the assessed valuation of each high school district, so that the board might see how Jefferson Union high school district compared with others of like resources. A motion requesting the principal to secure such data was passed unanimously. The resignation of Mr. Louis Pedley as instructor of commercial subjects was presented by Principal Ferguson, and accepted by the board. Propositions by local contractors to put in a more efficient heating system were taken under consideration. President Bentley remarked that the present system is costing too much, but that there are not available funds to install a new system at present. He felt that a system of heating by oil would save its cost in a few years, and would be more effective, and that such a system should be put in just as soon as possible. Trustee Gehringer said that he had been investigating oil burning systems and found that they were both economical to operate and efficient. Principal Ferguson reported that the Senior class was making window curtains as its donation towards the fitting up of the basement as a social room, in which the students could

MILLBRAE PLANS WATER DISTRICT

After delays of many months the Millbrae water issue finally received some attention from the board of supervisors last Monday when a resolution for the formation of a district by referendum was passed by the board, and the date for a hearing on the proposal was fixed as June 8. More than 40 signatures were attached to a petition which accompanied the resolution. Citizens of Millbrae Highlands and Millbrae Villa were at odds over the water issue for some time, and when it was finally shown that the proponents outnumbered the opponents, steps were taken to provide water for the community, which now depends on wells for its supply. When matters were apparently moving smoothly it was discovered that the original petition was not in legal form, so the residents were compelled to start all over again. The resolution adopted Monday calls for a special election on the water issue, the date for which will be set by the supervisors, provided there is nothing more to add to the already great number of delays. One contractor submitted bids for the Menlo Park improvement program. Irving L. Ryder, San Jose, the lone bidder, got the job for a little more than $151,000. The San Jose Y. M. C. A. was extended the courtesy of the San Mateo camping ground at Memorial park.

MANIAC ATTACKS GOOD SAMARITANS

Authorities on the coastside of San Mateo county have been combing the various communities and the surrounding countryside for a man believed to be a maniac, who seriously injured one man, beat off another, and fled in their car. Louis Hall and J. D. Banner, of Rockaway Beach, were riding along the Coast highway when they saw a man lying in the middle of the road, seemingly injured. Hall jumped from the car and went to assist the man. As he drew near the man leaped to his feet and began attacking Hall with a long knife, severely slashing him and breaking his left arm. Banner ran to his friend's assistance, but the alleged maniac beat both men off, jumped into their car and fled. Hall was taken to the South San Francisco hospital, while Deputy Sheriff E. Winters organized a posse and went in search of the attacker. Up to the present time no trace of the man has been found.

"A SUPREME FAITH" PASTOR'S THEME

Rev. John R. Stevenson will preach on "The Highest Belief Possible," on Sunday evening at 7:45 at the Grace Presbyterian church. In this sermon the pastor will deal with the daring things of the Christian faith, showing that a supreme happiness needs a supreme faith, a supreme morality needs the highest form of religion. Last Sunday two separate choirs rendered special Mother's Day music, one choir being composed of girls and the other of boys. Many surprises of a pleasant nature are in store for those attending these popular services.

SUFFERS PAINFUL ACCIDENT

Little Doris Wammack, of Winchester street, had the misfortune to run the head of a needle into her knee. She had been pinning patterns and leaned over on the needle, which broke off in the knee. Infection set in, but little Doris is regaining her usual good health at the Community hospital, where the needle was removed. Her little friends are anxious to see her home again.

assemble at lunch time and before school in the mornings.

Trustees Brown and Vireno expressed appreciation of this work of the seniors, and the other members concurred in the sentiments expressed. Principal Ferguson also reported the completion of the garage which is to house the school truck, lawn mower, and other apparatus. The principal's monthly report showed an average daily attendance of 286.

Attention of the board was called by Principal Ferguson to the fact that damage is being done to the buildings during hours when the school is not in session; also that the planted areas are being damaged by outsiders who seem to enjoy acts of vandalism. A general discussion followed in which the sentiment was expressed that some means must be found to supervise the school property and grounds during times when school is not in session. The principal announced that Commencement exercises will be held on the evening of Wednesday, June 11.

FISH AND GAME NOTES

By J. H. NEUSTADT

An increased interest in the propagation of pheasants in captivity, under license for state authorities, is manifested from the recent reports to the Division of Fish and Game of the Department of Natural Resources. The breeders of game birds are licensed by the state conservation body and are required to make annual report of their activities.

A check of the returns from licenses granted during the year 1929 discloses that 329 operators in the state of California are engaged in the breeding of game birds for profit. According to the statement of J. S. Hunter, in charge of the Bureau of Game Refuges for the Division of Fish and Game, and who is directly in charge of the licensing of game breeders, a marked increase is shown from year to year in the number of applicants for licenses.

Quail, pheasants and ducks are the species most commonly reared in captivity by the breeders. At the end of the 1929 season owners throughout the state had on hand 4,240 quail, 5,132 pheasants, and 1,049 ducks. The quail were representative of several species, including the native mountain varieties, as well as many exotic forms. Pheasants in the possession of breeders were chiefly ring-necked, but many of the rarer varieties were also owned by fanciers.

Most of the owners of ducks confined their attentions to mallard, with a total of 739 birds of that species being reported, but there were many of the migratory species represented. Breeders reported that 75 of the beautiful wood ducks, once so abundant in California, were being held as breeding stock.

In conjunction with the state game farms, the private breeders of game birds are doing a great work in the restocking of game covers. A majority of the game species sold by the breeders go to landowners who liberate them on their premises for the purpose of restocking shut-out cover.

For many years sportsmen of Humboldt county, and some prominent sportsmen of other localities, have tried to secure the removal of a jetty in the Eel river, which was obstructing the free run of fish but nothing was accomplished. Last fall the Eel River Valley Fish and Game Club called the matter to the attention of the Associated Sportsmen of California. Our Public Relations Committee made a personal inspection and immediately returned, secured the necessary permits and the jetty was removed.

As in many other cases the incident is not closed. The Humboldt county board of supervisors after being threatened with a suit for damages in case the jetty was not replaced, have agreed to replace it, but we can now insist that the plans and specifications be presented to the commission so that the necessary provision will be made to permit the free run of fish at all times.

Through the Association's efforts, necessary appropriations have been made by the Commission and the state government for the construction of a permanent jetty at the mouth of the Russian river. This jetty will keep the mouth of the river open and with intensive fish propagation and suitable care it will be possible to make the Russian river one of the finest fishing streams in the state.

The Association prevailed upon the Commission to secure some Atlantic salmon eggs. These eggs have been hatched and the small salmon are now being held at the Prairie Creek and Cold Creek hatcheries. The permanent establishment of this fish in California gives promise of being the longest step forward in the sport of fishing in recent years.

The foregoing are but some items of the program on which the Association is continually working. You will learn more from our magazine and from attending meetings.

Fish and game can no longer be left unguarded to look after itself. Active, intensive, organized watchfulness and effort by all sportsmen is necessary to maintain, let alone increase, our present supply of fish and game. In our efforts we ask your support to the limit of your ability.

PLEDGE FOR FARMERS

We read of a movement among farmers of an eastern state which might well be extended to other states as a means of overcoming the agricultural depression.

The idea is that each farmer should sign a pledge to produce his food and stock feed on his own farm, so far as possible, in order to more nearly have his "money crops" clear at the end of the year.

An example of what such a pledge includes is given in the following 10 points:

- I will—
- Raise my own stock feed.
- Raise my own meat.
- Have a good garden.
- Provide my milk and butter.
- Keep at least 30 good hens.
- Have or start an orchard.
- Plant soil improving crops.
- Encourage my children to take part in club work.
- Add home conveniences.
- Beautify my homestead.
- Farmers who take such a pledge and live up to it will be very likely to be ahead of the game at the end of the year, especially if they also adopt better production and marketing methods along with their "live at home" program.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS SHOULD EMPHASIZE CITIZENSHIP

"Our public schools should give an increasing emphasis to training in matters of citizenship in practical matters," writes James M. Ogden, Attorney General, State of Indiana, in the United States Daily. He continued in part:

"Our high schools should instruct in the meaning and purpose of political parties; that they are not machines to be manipulated for gaining office and influence, but are the agents to be used in voting for and putting into effect principles of government and that voters operate through parties in selecting their public servants.

"There should be a course in politics in every college for at least one hour a week and it should be one of the studies that each student in college should be required to take.

"Every one is or should expect to be a voter. To be an intelligent voter, the voter must understand politics from both a theoretical and a practical standpoint.

"It should be indelibly impressed upon every student that he owes a duty to devote a reasonable amount of his time to the political life of the community in which he lives, and if he neglects this, that it unfits him to life in a free community. He should be taught that the American citizen should work in politics in a practical manner and should follow the highest principles of honor and justice.

"The student should understand that there is a high and honorable profession of politics or public service, and that it is a profession with intellectual qualifications and standards.

"Then there should be an increasingly large number to make this study who do not necessarily have in mind the holding of an office. The course of study should include a careful and fair-minded investigation of questions which arise in political life, but on which both voters and office holders are now compelled to guess what is right or follow their prejudice on the matter because nobody really knows the facts or what the effect of a certain policy would be.

"Such a course of study should fit men to enter political life with high ideals and purposes, yet with capacity to serve humanity not under ideal conditions, but under conditions as they actually exist today and which must be met as they do exist. Such a course cannot do its service if it is a sort of training school of political expediency.

"Let our citizenry learn that offices do not exist that they may be filled, but that they exist as branches of departments of government. Let them look upon the service as county commissioner, mayor, or member of some board as a patriotic service."

URGES DEPORTATION OF ALIEN LAW BREAKERS

"Deportation is a proper and effective weapon against aliens who violates our laws and relieves the United States from the cost of maintaining them in already overcrowded jails," stated Representative Albert Johnson, chairman of the House Committee on Immigration and Naturalization, in urging the passage of a bill providing for the deportation of any alien convicted of the Harrison

Narcotic Law as amended. He said further in this regard:

"The crime wave which has assumed such terrible proportions in America is directly connected with use of smuggled heroin, cocaine and other vicious habit-forming drugs. The small size of the packages containing valuable shipments of prepared narcotics makes concealment easy for clever international smugglers. The seriousness of the narcotic problem has not yet been fully recognized by the American people, or by Congress. One-third of all the inmates of our Federal prisons are addicts or violators of our narcotic laws. It is estimated by reliable authorities that fifty per cent of crimes of violence are attributable to the use of drugs.

"The flow of dangerous habit-forming narcotics from the factories of Europe continues to seep into the life blood of the American people, bringing misery, disease and crime into its wake. The main purpose of this bill is to permit the Government to deport the alien smugglers and those aliens higher up in the international rings who are worse than murderers."

Full speed ahead on grade crossings in an invitation to death. This was the warning issued by the Safety Conference of the California State Chamber of Commerce in announcing that during May a state-wide campaign is to be conducted to reduce grade crossing accidents. Failure to restrict speed at grade crossings and the disregard for warning signals, were responsible for the majority of the 2929 grade crossing accidents which occurred last year, officials said. Requesting the co-operation of all California motorists during the campaign, Safety Conference officials pointed out that section 113 of the State Vehicle Act restricts the speed of a car to fifteen miles an hour in traversing grade crossings of any steam, electric or street railway where the driver's view is obstructed. This law is being violated by hundreds of motorists every day, it was stated.

Governor C. C. Young assured representatives of the Central Republican Committees of ten southern California counties that allocation of probably 500 miles of new secondary highways in the southern part of the state would be announced soon by the department of public works. Searching for gold with a radio metal-finding instruments of its own invention, C. H. Preston of Stockton struck pay dirt in the form of an early day safe. When the device registered, Preston dug down five feet and discovered the safe. It contained a number of documents and records of the M. & M. Mining Company, and a letter, dated October 13, 1952, from Newton Miller of San Francisco to his sister, Elizabeth Miller of Somerville, Mass. Preston's invention resembles a cross between a banjo and a radio set.

An answer to the condemnation suit recently filed by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company for right of way across the property of E. O. Sylvester has been placed on file at Sonoma. Sylvester alleges that he has already suffered $14,000 damages through cutting of 142 valuable living trees. The company seeks a right of way, thirty-two feet wide, extending from the Mono road northeasterly to Lyons Dam, for the construction of a high voltage line. Sylvester states that the tract has been surveyed and platted for homes and resorts, and the power line would greatly mar its scenic beauty.

"I could not understand her, then, when she told me how gladly she would give her life, were it not for me, to live for a single year the glorious freedom of Molly Brant," said Paul. "But I do—now. In that one year she knew she would find something which would more than make up for all the other years she might live, just as every hour here with you is more to me than ten thousand back there."

"As he said these things, and believed and felt them, there was in him a will to live which would not utterly extinguish itself. It was scarcely more than a spark, a smoldering ember that was bound to die, for his eyes, his brain, and every faculty of reason which he possessed told him there was no hope of finding a way beyond the walls which shut them in. A few minutes before, when Carla had sat at his knees, with his fingers feeling the warmth and sweetness of her hair, this spark had leaped into flame. It still remained as Carla yielded at last to his demand, and gave herself to the bed he had made for her, with his coat for her pillow.

"It seems almost a sin to sleep," she said; and if slumber were near, or even the necessity for it, he could find no shadow of it in her face. She might have risen from her bed an hour ago, so freshly clear and lovely were her eyes, so deep their lustrous content and happiness when she looked at him. Yet, after a little, her lashes drooped as if to veil the love behind them, and lay in velvet darkness against the whiteness of her cheeks. For a while Paul sat close and watched her, and with each breath the flame in him grew stronger, the demand that something happen, through force of God or man, to break down the walls of death which environed her.

Alone, with Carla's unconscious form lending faith and inspiration to his thought, he fixed his attention, as a dozen times before, on the smoke which rose from the burning wood.

Hours did it go? Hours ago he had asked himself this question, and until he had discovered a thin fog of smoke settling over the water, and drifting away with the rush of it, his blood had run swiftly with a thrill of hope. And now, in spite of the fact that he knew where it went, the question remained, as if a voice inside his head had been trained to ask it, parrot-like, and could not be made to stop.

He and Carla had collected a pile of pitchwood. As they had found each stick they had exclaimed it a treasure discovered, until the thrill of a game had become part of their endeavor. He chose a stick heavily weighted with pitch and lighted the end of it in the fire. Then he walked off into the gloom where he and Carla had gone many times before. It was like following the inside of a great rock drum which was flat on one side—flat where the water thundered and raced through the mountain.

When his torch burned short he returned for another. Carla had not moved in her sleep, and he buried himself in blackness again, following the rock so closely that his body touched it, trying at every step to pierce with his vision a little farther into the stygian pit over his head. It was into this pit that the smoke went, mounting in drifting spirals, like smoke in an Indian tepee. Up there, he thought, it was taken by a slowly dragging current of air made by the suction of the stream, and descended to exit from the mountain with it. There was only one break in the circular wall of gruesomely black and water-worn rock, against which, in ages past, a subterranean flood had washed and roared. This was where a small section of it had given way from overhead and had piled up a mass of broken stone which he had climbed, with Carla watching from below. Here the smoke from his torch did not go upward but settled about his head and disappeared toward the vent in the mountain through which the river rushed with great force. He went to this outlet.

It was a nole which his eyes were unable to measure, choked to within a foot of its upper jaw by a seething flood of water, and out of which—though the space for sound was small—came such a sullen rumbling that his blood was chilled as he listened to it. Alone, he would have plunged into this. To die fighting, pitting his small strength against all the forces which might oppose him, was the urge which was refusing to subdue itself within him. He flung out his flaming torch and saw it swallowed in an instant. Like that he would have gone if Carla had not been there to go with him.

He turned back to the fire and put on a fresh stick of resinous wood before he sat in the sand near enough to Carla to touch her with his hand. He wondered if fear had begun to seize upon him as he looked at her unconscious form, foreseeing the torment of impending hours when madness would be for him alone. Unless they died together, he must outlive Carla—to save her from a realization of that which he, in his greater strength, should bear.

CHAPTER XI

Paul knew he must keep moving, or rouse Carla from her sleep. The nakedness and desolation of aloneness were turning him into a coward. Not a coward who was afraid of death, but one who felt increasing horror in passively waiting for it. He went to the debris of rock again. He had no reason for this, no thought, except that it offered him the one chance to do something physical besides fumbling his way over unstable and shifty sand. The desire for a work to do was an ache in his body as well as his brain, and he began to climb the broken mass, as he had done once before. He had gone about thirty or forty feet above the floor of their dungeon then, but this time he found footholds which carried him a little farther, until, from the point he reached, he could look over the bulge in the rock which had previously concealed their fire, and could clearly see Carla in the glow of it.

He had the desire to call to her, to feel her glorious life a part of their existence again. Sleeping, she seemed gone from him. He swung his torch, making a writing of fire in the blackness, and his lips almost cried her name. Then he recognized the weakness of his act and began to pull himself a little more up the broken wall.

If Carla had awakened and turned her eyes toward him, she would have seen a strange and weird thing. The burning piece of pitchwood was a spout of yellow flame, illuminating at times the ghastly figure that bore it, and then floating alone in a limbo of midnight emptiness as if borne by shades that in color and spirit were a part of the gloom. She might have thought, rousing herself from slumber, that hands which were no longer Paul's were bearing it toward the roof of their world. Steadily up into this pit of Acheron it went, and there it disappeared, as if smitten by a mighty breath that extinguished it in a second. For a time utter darkness lay where the light had been. Then the torch reappeared as suddenly as sable wings had engulfed it, and in another moment it was plunging down through space. In a few minutes Paul came where it had fallen, uttering in the sand, and picked it up again. More than ever his face was like that of a ghost. His cheek was marked by a bleeding wound. His shirt was in shreds on his breast. His eyes blazed in a way that would have startled Carla.

He went to the edge of the water and bathed his face and hands. Then he returned to the fire and knelt beside Carla. He raised her head gently in his arms, and she did not awaken. He held it against his breast and kissed her hair.

"Carla!" he whispered. Her lips moved, her lashes trembled, and opened slowly to unveil her eyes. "You have slept a long time," he said. "At least—it seemed long—and I took a torch and climbed the pile of rocks again. I went higher than before—so high that I came to a ledge, and followed it—and then I came to a great crack in the wall, and there, at the end of it—I saw—light."

"Light!" she breathed. "Yes, light. From the sun. I have found a way out."

There was silence then. Almost without effort, it seemed to Paul. Carla crept out of his arms. He knew that something was going with her—forever. Her face was whiter than his own. What he had dreaded to see lay in her eyes—a thing fighting back and crushing the glory which had lived in them for a little while. The understanding of what his discovery meant came quickly to her, and he saw a fabric of assembled dreams going to pieces, like one of the odd jumble pictures on a screen. When its hundred disintegrated parts came together again, they formed Carla's face, waiting for him at the end of the trail of light sent to guide them back to an earthly destiny still unfulfilled, and which, for a time, had passed centuries away from them.

Deadliest of Poisons

Is Unguarded Tongue

An unmerciful tongue may be more cruel than the most terrible instrument of torture ever forged. It can stab more keenly than a dagger, and cut more deeply than a sword. That quick tongue; that fiery, temper-driven tongue; that soft, slimy, slandering tongue; that sharp, sarcastic tongue; these, an inspired writer has said, are set on fire of hell! It is dangerous to handle such cruel weapons heedlessly. With one of them you may so rend your mother's bosom that she will wish she had never been born; you may so pierce your father's heart as to bring down his gray hairs in sorrow to the grave; you may cut the nearest, dearest ties and leave the heartstrings bleeding.—Montreal Family Herald.

Must Collect Life's Debt

The world owes every one a living, that is true. But you're not going to get it unless you go out and collect it. The best apples are those that have to be picked from the tree; it's the poor ones that drop into your lap.—Grit.

HURLERS DEVELOP COMING CATCHERS

String of Experienced Pitchers Big Help to Manager.

An experienced and smart pitching staff is a great relief to a manager under any circumstances. But there is one particular time that it means the most and that is a time that very few fans think about.

The situation referred to is that in which a manager is breaking in a new catcher.

Donie Bush of our White Sox is facing just that circumstance and he is thanking his stars for pitchers such as Thomas, Lyons, Faber, Blankenship and Henry to help pave the way for the development of young Johnnie Riddle.

With Moe Berg, his first string receiver, on the injured list, Donie must use Riddle right from the start. The youngster has everything to make a great star, apparently, except experience. When he goes behind the bat to catch such men as the above-mentioned pitchers, he can have experience made to order.

Naming Christy Mathewson of the Giants as pitcher and Johnny Kling of the Cubs, catcher, Honus Wagner, famous in other days as shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates, picks all the time all-American baseball team in Collier's. Wagner also selects John McGraw as all-time manager. His selections are:

First base—Hal Chase.
Second base—Larry Lajoie.
Third base—Jimmy Collins.
Shortstop—Joe Tinker.
Center field—Ty Cobb.
Right field—Babe Ruth.

A golf match was played in England recently between an aviator and a professional, the flyer dropping balls on the greens while the golfer played on terra firma. The birdman won, being required only to hit the green.

Tex Rickard always wanted to build a Madison Square garden in London, and it would not be surprising if that very thing were done in the comparatively near future. London emissaries have been over here several times to talk over the matter with William F. Carey and his associates, and the idea has received favorable consideration.

The London garden might have something in common with the garden in Boston. That is, it might be built in connection with some railroad station which served trains from all of the smaller cities in England, but which was still central enough to get the London trade.

Stagg and Yost, long rivals as coaches, never had the honor of playing against each other, but their sons may be opponents when Chicago plays Michigan at Ann Arbor, Nov. 22.

Paul Stagg is regular quarterback of the Maroons, and Fielding H. Yost, Jr. will be a back on the Michigan squad this year.

The Wolverine back field is somewhat open, with only Capt. Jim Simrall and Maynard Morrison of the regular backs of last year returning; so young Yost seems to have a fairly good chance of breaking in. He will have competition, however, from Willie Heston, Jr.

Dan Howley, peppy manager of the Cincinnati Reds, believes in having runners on the bases and ready to run when his pitchers are working in batting practice.

"I always have a runner or two on the bases and the pitcher has to watch those runners," says Howley. "I ask my pitchers to throw to the bases and accustom themselves to pitching with runners on the path. That is one of the most important things in the business of pitching. No pitcher ever became a great pitcher until he realized fully this responsibility."

"Many pitchers fail to make the grade because they cannot pitch with runners on the bases. Some of them change their pitching style as soon as a runner gets on. Sometimes this shift in styles takes away the effectiveness from the pitcher. The change seems to throw him off his stride."

Willie Kamm, the clever third-sacker of the Chicago White Sox, when he played his first game in the American League had a $50 glove on his left hand—so the story is told. Honus Wagner, one of the game's greatest players, when he played his first game in the big stuff had a glove on his left hand that cost $2. It was a patched up affair, but he made good with that ragged glove. Both these star players made good so it must be the man and not exactly the glove.

Brooklyn having no prominent golf course, Maurice McCarthy, former intercollegiate golf champion, has joined the Green Meadow club of Westchester, N. Y., in order to keep in practice.

It sounds the same, no matter what the language. Under the headline, "Babe Ruth, El Calasol," we read in El Continental of El Paso, Texas: "Babe Ruth, el formidable carabineador de los Yanquis de Nueva York se destaca como el mas grande bateador que se haya encontrado en las ligas mayores de beisbol."

Ty Cobb, baseball immortal, broke ninety during his first month of golfing and at present consistently scores in the eighties.

THE LITTLE HARES

Isabel was the only one of Mrs. Hare's children who had escaped dangers and lived, so Mrs. Hare was trying to give her and the others around some good advice.

"My dears," she said, "a hare has the advantage that few animals have—except possibly a giraffe—and that is the power of seeing more than what is just in front of the eyes."

"It sounds terribly confusing, mother," said Isabel.

"It does to begin with," said Mother Hare, "but when I have explained it all, you will understand."

The little hares looked very much puzzled.

"We would like to understand," they said.

"And how in the world are we like giraffes?" asked Isabel. "A giraffe is a creature belonging to a zoo or the circus or the wilds somewhere, isn't he?"

"Hasn't the giraffe an enormously long neck and long legs? Isn't he very, very queer-looking? Surely, Mother Hare, you don't think we are queer-looking, do you?"

"Ha, ha," laughed Mother Hare. "I don't wonder you ask how you can be like a giraffe."

"Yes, the creature you describe is the giraffe."

"But all the same, though we are not related at all, there is one thing about us both which is alike."

Isabel began to feel of her neck. She thought that perhaps it might suddenly spring out into a great long neck or that her legs might suddenly grow and grow and that she would find her head somewhere in the clouds.

"If she had only stopped to think about it she would have realized that she had never seen hares with enormously long necks or with long legs, and that no hare had ever grown to a huge size in a moment or two.

"But I Must Give You All This Advice."

Still she didn't stop to think. She only thought how puzzling and confusing it was!

"Do tell us quickly, mother," she managed to gasp.

"A giraffe," commenced Mother Hare, while all the little hares looked at her, hoping the words would come faster, so that they could know sooner and have all this strange talk explained, "has only two eyes, but they are so far apart and each one is placed so he can see, as it were, around the corner."

"That is how he can fight with his feet and knows just where to strike his blows."

"And our eyes are placed in such a way that we can see far to the side and almost around to the back. So, we are like the giraffe in that."

"But I must give you all this advice."

"Always keep your eyes on the lookout for danger."

"When cruel people are hunting us and when they have made their hunting dogs chase us, look—always look and don't close your eyes for a moment."

"You can see the dogs coming from behind you and you can hurry to escape."

"And all the little hares said that they would take Mother Hare's advice."

PUZZLES

What is a chipmunk? A sport model squirrel.

When is D naughty? When it is in disgrace.

What is an island? A piece of land out for a swim.

What sort of horse is no use for pulling a cart? A clotheshorse.

Why is an empty purse always the same? Because there is no change in it.

If Mary had six eggs and used six eggs, what would she have left? Eggshells.

Why are the middle ages called the Dark Ages? Because there were so many knights.

What is the difference between a new five-cent piece and an old-fashioned dime? Five cents.

What is the difference between a story book and a donkey? The story book has its tale inside, and the donkey has its tail outside.

CURBING ACCIDENTS

The automobile menace will not be curbed until drivers "think safety."

During the past ten years, through intensive safety work, the American railroads have reduced fatalities on their property, owing to conditions within their control, 61 per cent.

The accident record in almost all other industries has steadily decreased, due to untiring efforts that have impregnated a knowledge and a consciousness of safety in the minds of workers.

Contrast this with the automobile accident situation. Last year motor vehicles were responsible for the deaths of 31,500 persons—a new high record. This represents a 13 per cent increase over the 1928 record, while automobile registrations gained but 8 per cent. Motor vehicle accidents to school children are on the decrease, due to the fact that safety education is part of the curricula in modern and progressive schools.

Every reckless and irresponsible driver is a menace to all the rest of us. Persons who disregard safety should be prevented from using the public highways.

GOLD STAR MOTHERS

This month the first contingent of Gold Star Mothers will visit the graves of their sons in France at the expense of the United States government. Wives of American soldiers who are buried in France are also eligible for these trips, provided they have not re-married.

According to the law under which these pilgrimages were authorized, there will be opportunities for trips also in 1931 and 1932, so that those concerned may choose the year most convenient for them.

Arrangements for the transportation and comfort of the mothers and widows are made by the War Department, and a number of army officers left for France last month in order to see that suitable accommodations are provided.

By making provision for these pilgrimages Congress did a most worthy and patriotic act. It is hoped that every American woman who has a loved one buried "over there" may be able to take advantage of the government's generosity in arranging these pilgrimages.

SLOT MACHINE CLERKS

The machines for vending a wide variety of merchandise are being introduced with great rapidity, one company alone manufacturing such "automatic clerks" having an investment of 25 million dollars in this field.

Although coin-in-the-slot machines have been common for a long time, it is the extension of the idea to so many lines that makes recent developments notable. The convenience to the public is seen by the fact that many of them are set up under such means of protection that they give 24-hour service.

One drug store in Detroit uses no less than 52 slot machines, selling many kinds of creams, pastes, soaps, tobacco, and in fact all sorts of packaged products. Then there are others which vend sodas, radio entertainment, electric vibration, gasoline, canned goods, tea, coffee and even eggs.

All these are said to have been developed from an idea originally employed by a manufacturer 40 years ago, when he engaged a carpenter to build the first chewing gum vending machine, which was at the time looked upon as only an ingenious toy. It is another illustration of how great industries sometimes grow out of an apparently insignificant experiment.

A scientist says that movements of the big toe tells how one's mind is working. A young fellow sometimes finds out how his sweetie's papa's mind is working that way.

"Believe it or not," Ripley could hardly get away with this yarn: The New Hampshire legislature forgot to appropriate money for the members' pay before adjourning.

Folks living in the village of Nasty, England, have petitioned to have the name of the place changed. Their requests seems reasonable.

A BLOODLESS WAR

War has broken out between Russia and Rumania, according to a cable despatch, but it is a bloodless war, confined so far to radio attacks and counter-attacks, such as we are becoming accustomed to in this country.

Declaring that the Russians have been employing their broadcasting station in Odessa for the purpose of disseminating Soviet propaganda inimical to Rumanian interests, Rumania has established a station at Chiscinu for the purpose of counter-acting the Russian communistic doctrine.

In order to make its defensive more effective, the Rumanians are using the same wave-length as the Russians, so it is likely that neither will be heard to any great extent.

Radio listeners will doubtless promptly tune out both stations when the interference makes them unintelligible, so that the war of propaganda will probably end in a draw.

GRAFTING UPLIFTERS

Some time ago the commissioner of public welfare of New York declared that many so-called charitable agencies divert to the use of their own personnel at least 50 per cent of the money collected from the public.

This statement was made before a conference of charities and corrections, and coming from such an authoritative source is entitled to consideration.

Many "welfare" campaigns are conducted by professional workers on a percentage basis, whereby the promoters and their associates reap great personal benefits, according to the commissioner. These "social workers" are often only social parasites, who exploit the generous impulses of the ordinary citizen for their own profit and glorification.

This should not deter charitably inclined persons from giving to really worthy causes through reputable agencies like the Red Cross and Salvation Army, for instance, but it should be a warning against fly-by-night organizations which exist principally for the purpose of giving a lot of pseudo uplifters an opportunity for easy pickings.

RIN TIN TIN

A new talkie in which the famed actor-dog Rin Tin Tin appears as a star performer has been facetiously called a "barkie" by a New York critic.

Rin Tin Tin is a truly remarkable animal, as all who have seen him on the screen will admit. He is a pure-blooded Belgian police dog, one of a litter of puppies found by American soldiers in a captured German sector during the World War, and adopted by Lee Duncan of the aviation corps, who brought him to the United States and trained him for the movies.

The dog has figured prominently in 15 pictures, and one of his most impressive stunts is to apprehend the villain of the play and thwart his malevolent designs by springing at his throat with apparent ferocity.

Yet Rin Tin Tin has never bitten anyone, his viciousness being entirely assumed, a feature of his technique as an accomplished actor.

It is related that he is even oblivious to villains in real life, as evidenced by the fact that some time ago a burglar robbed his master's home while Rin Tin Tin slept peacefully only a few feet away.

LIGHTS VS. FROGS

Once more has science come to the aid of man in his efforts to overcome the obnoxious habits of certain species of the animal kingdom.

A hotel in Pasadena has among its attractions some slightly lily ponds, but these became infested with bullfrogs, whose nightly concerts were a great annoyance and kept the guests awake.

After offering bounties for all frogs captured, hiring riflemen to shoot them, and exhausting all his ingenuity to rid the ponds of the nocturnal nuisance, the manager began a scientific study of frog psychology through reading all the books he could get hold of which might give an insight into their habits.

His research revealed that frogs sing, or croak, only under the cover of darkness, so he arranged for the illumination of the lily ponds by electric lights.

Now, the story goes, the frogs, baffled by science, sit dumb, vainly awaiting night's curtain of darkness, while the guests slumber in peace.

TO FLY THE PACIFIC

Next fall it is planned to span by airplane the world's greatest expanse of water from east to west, the Pacific ocean. At City Island, New York, a giant seaplane designed to make the trans-Pacific trip is being constructed.

According to the announcement, the new plane will have a wing spread of 150 feet, will be propelled by ten motors, and carry a pay load of eight tons.

In the light of the rapid advances in airplane engineering which have taken place recently there seems to be no reason to doubt that the plan may be successfully carried out.

Some people are born pessimists, while others think the next Congress may do better.

SIDELIGHTS

When a baby was born recently on board a steamer bound from Europe to America, passengers made up a purse as a present. The amount collected amounted to $250.03, and someone suggested that a Scotchman must be on board. A check-up revealed three Scotchmen.

Aviators who habitually make perfect three-point landings have nothing on Herbert Pickett of Newton, N. J. He landed uninjured on all fours when a train struck his automobile and hurled it 20 feet.

Negroes are noted for giving fantastic names to their social and fraternal organizations. A society recently chartered at Miami, Fla., is called the Improved Palbearers of America, although it has no connection with funerals or corpse-toting.

Harry Sommerfield of Chicago is another who agrees that there is nothing in a name. He is suing Love and Honey for $20,000 damages, alleging that Elmer Love slugged him in the jaw while Haycroft Honey pommelled his midsection.

A South Carolina coroner was puzzled to account for the sudden death of a negro which he was called to investigate. The darky appeared to have had good health and appetite just prior to his demise, as evidence showed that he had partaken of nine cans of sardines, a bottle of butter-milk, a plate of spare-ribs and two boxes of crackers.

Persons who feel the urge to open a new filling station might well consider the opportunities in Ethiopia. In that country gasoline is selling for 91 cents a gallon.

One of the world's most attractive young men is Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David Windsor. His baptismal names refer to three former royal personages and four patron saints. He himself is best known as the Prince of Wales.

The theory of relativity applies to automobile speed also. For driving 231 miles an hour on a Florida beach, Henry Seagrave received the order of knighthood from King George. Later Sir Henry Seagrave was fined $25 for driving $45 miles an hour on a city street.

And speaking of relativity again, Dr. Edna Heibred declares that "an insane person is just like a sane one—only more so."

Recently it was noted that a New Carlisle, Ohio, hearse bore the gloomy inscription "Doom Brothers, Undertakers." Now Abilene, Texas, counters with "The Laughter Undertaking Company."

It is fearful to contemplate what penalty Lindbergh might have incurred if he had performed his latest flying feat under Puritanical rule. An old Puritan law prohibited Sunday travel, but in case of urgent necessity journey of ten miles on the Sabbath was permissible. Lindy flew 2,530 miles on Sunday—and Easter Sunday at that.

Moonshine-bibbers in the vicinity of Long Beach, California, may experience a severe shock of they happen to run across a reptile at large in that vicinity. A 35-foot python named Powerful Katrinka recently escaped from a museum at the beach.

Arthur Gillizeau, of Brooklyn, is a patient man, but at last has decided that forbearance has ceased to be a virtue. He is seeking a divorce from his wife, who left home in 1918 and has not been back since.

Miss Noria, of Los Angeles, is in a position to give the horse-laugh to the state tax department. She was left $20,000 by Josephine Callaghan and it has been decided that the legacy is not subject to the state inheritance tax. Miss Noria is a mare.

A Philadelphia professor, after painstaking research, has announced that candy is a desirable diet for tired working girls in mid-afternoon when their energies begin to flag. The girls will unanimously agree, particularly if the boss will supply the energizing sweets.

Another census enumerator has been laboring under difficulties. In his district in New York has found families speaking nineteen different languages, while he speaks only six.

A sense of humor is desirable, but it may be over-developed, according to Tom Soldad, of Fresno, California. He has sued his wife, Lucy, for divorce, alleging that she spent the first week of their married life laughing at him.

New York has a litter of kittens which may not be high-bred, but they are at least high-born. They first saw the light in a packing box on the seventy-first floor of the Chrysler building.

Palm Tippy, 8 years old, is a swimming instructor at St. Petersburg, Pa. At the age of 3 she saved a baby from drowning and was awarded a Carnegie hero medal.

GREAT BRITAIN'S TELEPHONES INCREASE SEVEN PER CENT

At the beginning of 1930 there was a total of 1,848,468 telephones working under the jurisdiction of the British Post Office in England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland. This is an increase of 125,885 for the year 1929, or 7.3 per cent.

The largest percentage increase during the twelve months was in the city of London, followed closely by the rest of England and Wales. Northern Ireland showed an increase of 6.7 per cent and Scotland 5.8 per cent. Residence telephones increased 10.9 per cent, as compared with a growth of 3.8 per cent in business exchange installations.

We assume that the new cruiser Chicago carries some nifty armament in the way of machine guns and "pine-apples."

We read that a certain big league pitcher is a saxophone player. And, oddly enough, he has a brother who is a musician.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store, Edwards' Drug Store, Mission street, near San Jose avenue.

WOMEN TO SELL POPPIES FOR DISABLED SOLDIERS

California-made poppies, fashioned by disabled veterans in the various government hospitals in this state, will constitute a big proportion of the poppies to be sold throughout the nation on May 24, "Poppy Day," by the women of the American Legion Auxiliary to raise funds for child welfare work and for aid of the thousands of veterans in government hospitals.

Officials of the Legion Auxiliary expect to sell 10,000,000 poppies in the various states of the union on May 24, according to Ethel M. Flynn, Secretary of the California Department of the Auxiliary, and Mrs. Margaret Kaending, of Glendale, President. The poppies to be sold by the Legion's Auxiliary are all made by disabled veterans who are not drawing compensation from the federal government and the proceeds will be used exclusively for the child welfare work of the American Legion Auxiliary and in the various government hospitals.

California veterans have already turned out more than 200,000 poppies for sale in this state. The poppies to be sold, throughout the nation, are made in California and twelve other states in which government hospitals for the care of the World War veterans are located.

The news comes from Sacramento that a group of Menlo Park junior college students attending a Sacramento track meet over the week end were curious to learn if a fire sprinkler in their hotel rooms worked. The equipment was the type that sprinkles when heat is applied. Several matches were burned under the sprinkler. It worked—and quickly. The rooms were flooded with water spurting at the rate of 65 gallons a minute, the Menlo Park athletes were deluged and S. B. Leasin, manager of the hotel, summoned a crew of firemen to stem the flood.

Growth

THE whole universe is in a state of constant change. Everything about us, yes even ourselves and our community are undergoing a continuous change.

Most marked of all these changes is that of GROWTH.

Appreciation of growth can be understood by considering the development of our own town with that of other towns. A study of this development brings home to us, among other vital facts, this truth—the measure of Community success is dependent upon growth.

In other words, no community stands still—there are but two alternatives, the community grows and succeeds—or it goes backward and perishes.

Population alone does not determine the prosperity of our community any more than the weight of the individual determines health or personality.

Eminent physicians in referring to the physical condition of individuals tell us: "Your belt line is your life line—watch your belt line." By the same token experienced authorities on community development have cast into the discard the slogan "Watch Us Grow" for the more scientific phrase "Watch Your Growth."

Successful community growth demands the rate of increase in population be in proper relation to the size of the community. A normal growth, which allows this added population to become assimilated, welded, fused into the community life means that the community is in a sound condition.

*Adam Smith

Let us not aspire to become just a bigger community, but to become a Bigger and Better Community. A town cannot be bigger until it is better, and it cannot be better until it is bigger. Let us remember that it is natural and normal for a community to grow—unless it does there is something wrong—something lacking.

What is the normal growth of a community?

The answer to this question must be sought in the records of the development of all communities in our nation. Nor can it be answered by a simple statement, because community growth is complex and varies with geographical location, resources, leadership and present size. However, the average growth is now 15% every ten years.

Let us all create a spirit and enterprise in our community that will bear fruit in the creation of a Bigger and Better town to live in.

LAD MEETS DEATH ON EL CAMINO REAL

Raymond Alee, aged 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Alee, of San Francisco, was fatally injured Sunday when he ran into the path of an automobile on El Camino Real at Burlingame.

The youngster and his parents were visiting R. T. Wilson in Burlingame, and with his sister Hester, and a cousin, Robert Wilson, both 8 years age, had gone on an errand.

While returning he broke away from the other two children and ran out into the heavy stream of traffic on El Camino Real near Howard avenue. After evading two lanes of cars, he ran into the path of the machine of Matt J. Pasetta, Jr., 947 E. Julian street, San Jose, according to the police report.

Struck by the left fender and a corner of the radiator, the youngster was dragged a distance of 12 feet, police reported. Death was due to a fractured skull and internal injuries, it was learned at Mills Memorial hospital, where he was taken.

Pasetta was booked on a technical charge of manslaughter and released on his own recognizance.

"THE NEW MOON" IN FIFTH WEEK AT CURRAN THEATRE

Registering with the impact of "The Desert Song," the Sigmund Romberg operetta "The New Moon" continues to play to capacity audiences at the Curran Theatre in San Francisco, where it is now in its fifth week.

The piece was produced by Lillian Albertson and Louis O. Macloen, who collaborated in the production of such hits as "The Desert Song," and "Hit the Deck." Their current offering, "New Moon," being of the same fine calibre from cast and production standpoint as the above mentioned predecessors.

Perry Askam, stalwart baritone star of "The Desert Song," is co-starred in "The New Moon" with Josephine Houston, who has the prima donna role. The twain are recipients of storms of encores upon every appearance in the piece.

"The New Moon" is romantic, colorful entertainment; it abounds in fetching love scenes, comedy, and unforgettable melodies. The outstanding song hits of the piece, "Love Come Back to Me," and "Stouthearted Men," are gloriously sung, a male chorus of forty voices being particularly fine in the renditions.

A large and talented company has been assembled by the producers to interpret the vehicle, including a most effective supporting cast for the duo and an ensemble of pretty dancing and singing Misses.

Professional critics and laymen alike have praised the presentation without stint, and this same reception was recorded upon the occasion of its staging in London, Paris, New York, Boston, Chicago and Los Angeles.

The engagement of "The New Moon" will end at the Curran on May 31. "The Student Prince" will follow on Monday night, June 2.
